

COMPANY

Sabor de Coco is a Brazilian industry, from the Northeast region, located in Rio Grande do Norte, which is a dry coconut processor. We produce the crispy coconut, shredded coconut in natura, coconut oil and coconut flour, and can distribute other items related to the dried coconut, such as the dried desiccated coconut and coconut milk (on demand).

The company's goal is to carry out a sustainable production of food with high nutritional values, using the least possible inputs and without generating waste, reusing and processing these materials to develop new products, based on creative and disruptive entrepreneurship, aiming to transform the entire production chain.

Sabor de Coco has a real commitment and dedication to sustainable initiatives to reduce the environmental impact of the food industry, serving as an example and inspiration for several companies (in the same segment and other areas), often much larger than Sabor de Coco. The project proposes an evolution that generates benefits in the entire supply chain, starting with family agriculture, the supplier of raw material, and continuing to the production process with the coconut processing in a more efficient and sustainable way.
