COMPANY

Cooprado was born from the cooperative spirit and the union of rural producers from Antônio Prado (RS), with the objective of strengthening the storage and marketing of the region's agricultural production. Founded over 50 years ago, the cooperative began its activities primarily supporting soybean and corn producers, contributing to local economic development.

Throughout its history, Cooprado has expanded its operations and diversified its portfolio, also working with fresh fruits, grapes for wine and juice production, as well as other agribusiness initiatives. Today, it stands out as a solid cooperative, committed to innovation, sustainability, and the strengthening of family farming.

PRODUCTS

Cooprado combines tradition, innovation, and a commitment to quality in all its activities. With a strong presence in fruit farming, the cooperative is a benchmark in encouraging the cultivation, processing, and marketing of fruits, bringing excellent products to different regions of Brazil. Its portfolio includes fresh fruits, such as apples, stone fruits, kiwis, persimmons, and citrus, as well as grape juice, wines, sparkling wines, milk, feed, and seeds, always valuing local production and the work of its members.

With continuous investments in technology, infrastructure, and sustainable development, Cooprado has expanded its operations to various segments of the agribusiness industry, promoting the growth of its associates and the community. Among its highlights is the Primo Fior wine brand, produced by Cooperativa Agroindustrial Pradense, which has kept the cooperative tradition alive since 1974. Located in Antônio Prado, in the Serra Gaúcha region, an area recognized for its excellent conditions for producing high-quality grapes and fruits, the cooperative combines experience, dedication, and excellence to deliver products that represent the best of Brazilian agribusiness.

DETAILS ON PRODUCTION CAPACITY, SEASONALITY AND OTHER CHARACTERISTICS:

A leader in the production and marketing of stone fruits, Cooprado handles an average of 3,000 tons of these fruits annually, in addition to approximately 4,000 tons of apples per year, consolidating itself as an important partner in the region's fruit sector.
