

VINÍCOLA AURORA

JUICES, WINES AND SPARKLING WINES

COMPANY

In the South of Brazil is where Aurora was born. In this region, in 1875, the first Italian immigrants arrived ready to work and produce. In 1931, sixteen families of grape producers got together to start Vinícola Aurora.

The company is based on the principles of cooperativism, with its social and economic activity committed to its members, collaborators, and the community in a sustainable way.

As the largest Brazilian winery, Aurora is responsible for an average production of 80 million kilograms of grapes per year and exports its wines, sparkling wines, grape juices, and coolers to more than 20 countries.
