COMPANY

Coffee has been part of our family history for five generations. Through Terracini Coffee, we continue this legacy, connecting our origins in Brazil with our operations in the United States.

In Brazil, the coffee is grown at Fazenda Terracini, located in the mountains of Serra da Canastra, within the Cerrado Mineiro region — one of the most renowned in the world for the quality of its specialty coffees.

We produce high-quality 100% Arabica coffee. In the United States, through Terracini Farm, we store green coffee and facilitate direct access to coffee shops and roasters. Part of the production is also roasted and sold under the Terracini brand.

PRODUCTS

Our coffees are 100% Arabica, grown entirely on the Terracini Farm, at approximately 1,200 meters altitude. Our main product is single-origin green coffee, sold directly to coffee shops and roasters.

Through the Farm to Cup model, we actively participate in the entire production chain and also make our coffees available directly to the end consumer, always focusing on quality and exclusivity.

We work with our own origin: all the coffee is produced within the Terracini Farm, which allows us to control each stage of the production process, guaranteeing consistency, transparency, and complete traceability.

We also act as a direct bridge between origin and market. With Terracini Farm in the United States, we maintain a stock of green coffee and facilitate direct access to the product, reducing costs and, in many cases, eliminating intermediaries.

In the Farm to Cup model, part of the harvest is carefully roasted and sold directly to the consumer, ensuring rigorous quality control from cultivation to cup.
