

COMPANY

Zavit Apícola was founded with the purpose of combining excellence in the production of specialty honeys, environmental preservation, and regional development. Our history is built alongside beekeepers committed to sustainable practices and to valuing bees, which are essential for the balance of ecosystems. We carefully select batches of distinctive honeys, respecting the unique characteristics of each flowering season and region.

We believe that responsible production generates positive impacts for the entire community, promoting income, knowledge, and nature conservation. More than just offering high-quality honey, we seek to empower people, protect the environment, and leave a sustainable legacy for future generations.

PRODUCTS

NCM 0409.00.00

Zavit Apícola Honey is a premium product of natural origin, carefully selected from specific flowerings of the Brazilian semi-arid region, such as quince, juazeiro and wild species, which give each harvest unique sensory characteristics. The region's botanical diversity results in honeys with unique aromas, flavors, colors, and nuances, reflecting the authenticity and richness of the native flora.

The entire production process is conducted under strict quality and traceability standards, ensuring the preservation of the honey's natural properties, its purity, and its high nutritional value. The result is a distinctive product, suitable for direct consumption as well as for gastronomic pairings and applications in special recipes that highlight high-quality ingredients.

Zavit Apícola is committed to offering authentic and exclusive honey, combining tradition, excellence, and socio-environmental responsibility. Each package represents the care taken in selecting the finest blossoms and the respect for Brazil's natural heritage, delivering a unique experience of flavor and origin to the consumer.

Zavit Apícola Honey is produced from selected flowers from the Brazilian semi-arid region and undergoes a rigorous quality control and traceability process, guaranteeing purity, authenticity, and a superior standard in every batch. In addition to valuing the natural characteristics of each harvest, the brand adopts sustainable beekeeping practices that contribute to the preservation of biodiversity and the strengthening of local communities.
