Our farm adopts international quality certification standards, using advanced technologies to optimize irrigation and pest control in order to maximize production. We implement continuous improvement programs focusing on advanced agricultural practices, promoting Team Development, respecting the environment and the local community. We offer high quality mangoes, harvested with precision to ensure freshness and exceptional flavor, providing a unique experience to our customers.

Mango is one of the most consumed fruits in Brazil, because it is refreshing and because of the country's Tropical climate.

Mango is the fruit of the mango tree, traditionally called "pé de manga". The fruit is a fleshy drupe type, as it has juicy pulp and a lump inside. The bark is thin and varies between yellow, green and reddish tones.

Mangoes of the varieties: tommy, palmer, Keitt and kent
